Wage Summary

Each employer listed in the Wage Summary table should be an Idaho employer with whom you worked. The Work History column indicates each employer's status on your account.

- Completed is an employer for whom you have confirmed work history details. This employer is on your official work history and will be included in the monetary determination for your unemployment claim application.
- Missing is an employer for whom you have not confirmed work history details.

Claimant Portal: File A Claim Quick Guide

The quarters listed in the Wage Summary table are the calendar quarters that are included in the base period of your claim. The quarters do not reflect your entire work history for each employer because your employment could have spanned quarters prior to or after the quarters listed.

Work History Summary

The Work History Summary is your official work history from the past two years that is on record with Idaho Department of Labor. It contains all employers with whom you confirmed your employment including each Idaho employer, out-of-state employer, federal government agency, military branch, and self-employment work. These wages will be used to determine your monetary eligibility on this claim application.

If every employer you worked for is listed in the Work History Summary, you must acknowledge that you understand the work history will be used in the monetary determination of this claim.

Next Click the Next button to save your selection and continue to the Preliminary Work Search Status popup.

If an employer you worked for is not listed in the Work History Summary, you should add the missing employer to your official work history before you continue with your claim application.

While on this screen, a notification header bar will be displayed to remind you to continue with your claim application once you have finished making updates to your work history. Refer to the Manage Your Work History how-to process in the Claimant Portal User Guide.
